Poignant Documentaries to Show During Film Festival

Clickin' for Love and Hauling coming to Riverside International Film Festival

RIVERSIDE, Calif. – The Riverside International Film Festival (RIFF) is excited to announce two premier documentaries to be shown during this year's festivities – Clickin' for Love and Hauling. RIFF launches April 8 and continues through April 17, 2011 at the UltraStar Cinemas in the University Village at 1201 University Avenue, Riverside, CA, 92507. More than 100 domestic and international films are expected to screen during this yearly event.

Clickin' for Love is a documentary about the ever-growing world of internet dating. Internet dating has been around for more than a decade, but it still isn't clear whether online dating really works. Is "happily ever after" a realistic goal for online daters? Clickin' for Love is a light-hearted documentary exploring the modern world of online dating. Veterans of online dating share their stories of searching for casual encounters, soul mates, and everything in between.

Clickin' for Love is directed by Pablo Pappano, who went to the film school at Loyola Marymount University in Los Angeles where he directed the short films Sick and Trinidad. Recently, Pappano directed a speculative commercial for eHarmony.com after being a longtime member.

Often regarded as a marginal society, the recycling underworld of Sao Paulo - Brazil's largest metropolis - is the backdrop to the touching story of Claudines and his family. Hauling reveals the day-to-day life of this man, a father to over 27 children, and of many others who make their living out of collecting and recycling material that others have thrown out.

The documentary is directed, written, and produced by Sean Walsh. Walsh was born in Montreal, Canada and graduated from the New York Film Academy and holds a Master of Arts degree in Film and Television Production from Bristol University, England. Since 2001, he has resided in Sao Paulo, Brazil. Through the production company Code 7 he produces films and directs music videos. Hauling is his documentary feature directorial debut.

Additional details on RIFF, including a list and synopsis of all featured films and directors, is available at www.riversidefilmfest.org.
